One held, one sought in Nov. 7 shooting which injured three

By Steve Marschke

One of two suspects is in custody following last week's shooting in front of McDonalds Restaurant at West Capitol Ave. and Westacre Rd. which injured three.

Raymond Edward Scott, Jr., 38, is in a Merced jail after witnesses identified him as a participant in the Nov. 7 incident. West Sacramento police detective Terrell Marshall said one other suspect is still outstanding, although police will soon use a photo lineup to help witnesses confirm his identity.

Marshall said the shooting occurred after two groups of people got into an argument in front of the restaurant.

"Scott pulled out a semi-automatic pistol and fired several rounds into the air, then leveled it and fired again," said Marshall.

The second suspect also fired, he added.

Samuel Magallanes, 17, of West Sacramento was inside the restaurant and not a part of the argument, but was injured with a bullet fragment. Monica Madrigal, 16, of West Sacramento, was also inside the restaurant and was injured by flying glass.

Five-year old Ateesia Miller of Sacramento was with the group of people outside the restaurant who was involved in the altercation, and was injured by broken glass, possibly from an automobile.

All three victims have been treated and released from the hospital.

Officials say Money Store deal done

By Steve Marschke

West Sacramento officials joined the president of Raley's/Bel Air and developer Peter McCuen in a press conference Tuesday morning to announce a tentative agreement that could finally bring a Money Store headquarters to the Raley's Landing development.

All involved hope the deal could be the first step in the long-awaited buildup of the city's riverfront, including the ultimate construction of a riverfront downtown area.

Raley's Landing is a 25-acre parcel located just north of the Tower Bridge along the Sacramento River.

'We think this is going to be the project that kickstarts development along the river.'

-- City Councilman Bill Kristoff

The Money Store plans a 370,000 square foot, 10-story office site as a headquarters for its chief executive officer. The $50 million project could begin in mid-1996, according to city officials.

Chuck Collings, the president and C.E.O. of Raley's (which recently merged with Bel Air), issued a statement lauding the new agreement, which he said furthers the vision of the late Tom Raley.

"Tom never lost his vision or his enthusiasm for (this) property," Collings said. "He pioneered by building his corporate headquarters in West Sacramento and expanded his commitment by acquiring the Sacramento Savings and Loan building. He accumulated under-utilized property, and began the cleanup of the neighborhood. All the while, he was looking for the special someone who was visionary enough to take a risk, to be a pioneer, to make a major investment on the west bank."

The company found that someone in Peter McCuen of McCuen Properties, he stated. After Raley's death, the Raley's corporation and the Money Store began talks on part of the property. Over a year after it was expected, the city's redevelopment agency has hammered out an agreement with all parties involved that is hoped to allow the project to go forward.

"We think this is going to be the project that kickstarts development along the river," commented city council member Bill Kristoff.

The deal will shuffle property tax money which goes from the Raley's Landing property to the redevelopment agency back to the Raley's corporation to reimburse it for putting in sewers, water lines and other infrastructure in preparation for development years ago.

"The Raleys stepped in during the '80s and put in infrastructure, back when everybody thought everything would develop quickly," said McCuen.

The tax money would be fed back into the project on a sliding scale, depending on how much is generated from the entire Raley's Landing project, including the Money Store. The amount of money involved ranges from $1 million to about $20 million depending on exactly what is built on the property and when.

Also hoped for in the development is a hotel and other offices.

McCuen joined Collins and West Sacramento officials in explaining that development on both sides of the river should not be competitive in a "hostile" sense between Sacramento and West Sacramento.

"Trying to work just one side of the river is something I've never seen in any successful city anywhere," said Collins, explaining that both sides of the river need to be brought up together.

"It's like trying to fly with one wing," added McCuen. "We don't see the 'red line' down the middle of the river as clearly as some others do."

The pair had some other ideas including a water taxi service between the future West Sacramento side of the river and Old Sacramento, as the riverfront develops as a job center and tourist attraction.

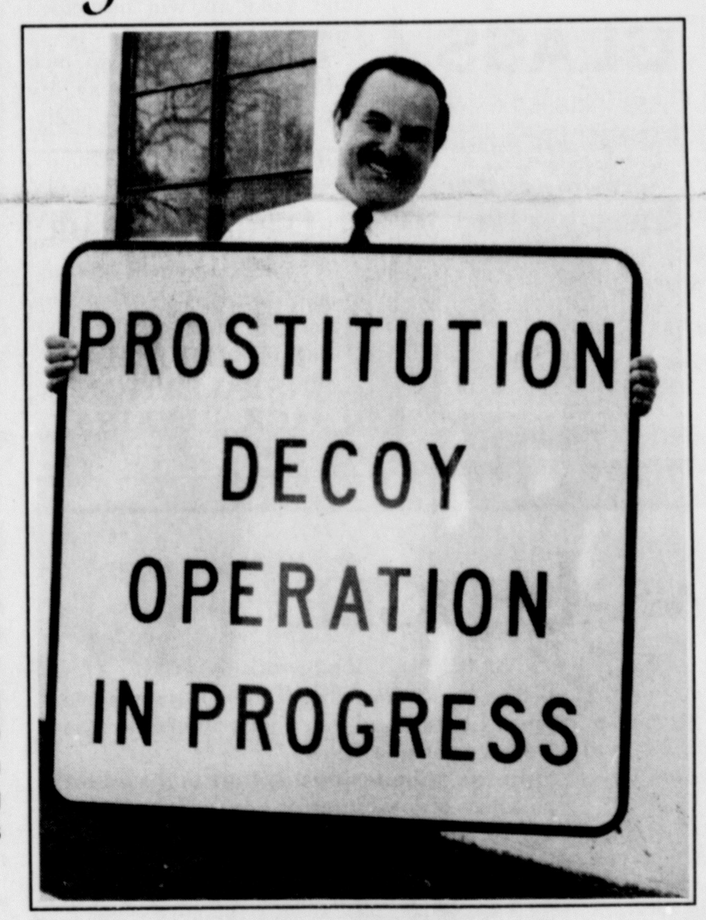

The proposed agreement now faces approval by city officials, following which Money Store officials hope to ratify it.

Let the buyer beware. . .

Lt. Russ Thomas of the West Sacramento Police Department models the new sign the police will use to discourage potential prostitution customers in the city's downtown. The sign will be displayed when police "decoys" are on the prowl posing as hookers and looking for "johns" trying to buy sex.

The sign also may be displayed sometimes when there is no decoy operation in effect, just to keep the public working.

It is part of a campaign similar to the "sobriety checkpoint" strategy city police have been using for several years, trying to discourage people from driving drunk by engaging in very visible campaigns to catch them.

Citizen helps douse flames, rescue two after high-speed crash

By Steve Marschke

A "spectacular" single-car crash early Thursday morning left two men hospitalized, cut off power to much of West Sacramento, and severed phone lines used by MCI's regional headquarters, interrupting phone service for some of the company's customers, said Officer Dan Rude of the West Sacramento Police Department.

The accident occurred when a 1987 Chevrolet Cavalier lost control at 7:34 a.m. while travelling westbound on Sacramento Ave. near Harbor.

"According to all the witnesses' accounts, this car was going in excess of 80 m.p.h.," said Rude, "although we don't have any physical evidence of this."

"He veered off the road and completely severed a utility pole. That put out power for a lot of West Sacramento. The car took out a fiberoptic cable trunk for MCI, right where it goes underground."

"The car continued westbound, taking out signs and a traffic control light. It rolled over and ejected the passenger, then the car came along and landed on top of him. The driver remained suspended upside down by his seat belt."

Just before it slid to a halt, the car appeared to be headed for a pit occupied by a construction crew near the KOVR television headquarters. Foreman Charlie Williams of RGW Construction saw the car coming and prepared to maneuver his backhoe between the car and the work crew. When he saw the passenger ejected, said Rude, Williams thought it was a seat being thrown out of the vehicle.

Williams rushed to the car and saw it catch fire. At first unsuccessfully, he fought the flames with a fire extinguisher. But although he feared the car could explode, Williams continued the fight with a second extinguisher in order to keep the trapped men from being burned alive.

He beat down the fire, and the two men were taken to UCD Medical Center with serious injuries.

The driver was William Scott Prescott, 53, of West Sacramento. The ejected passenger was Charles W. Stamps, 69, of West Sacramento.

Williams will receive a city proclamation of thanks for his heroism during the rescue.

Sacramento to build trade center

West Sacramento's "World Trade Center"

The Sacramento Chamber of Commerce announced earlier this month that it had obtained a license to operate a "World Trade Center" building, housing staff, trade offices and scores of foreign counselates interested in promoting trade.

The announcement may have drawn a raised eyebrow or two from West Sacramento residents, who drive by the World Trade Center building on Stone Blvd. quite frequently and wonder what the big deal is about a new one.

The difference is that the Sacramento version will be licensed from the World Trade Centers Association, a nonprofit organization which owns rights to the name "World Trade Center."

The West Sacramento facility, on the other hand, is owned by the Port of Sacramento, which leases space to West Sacramento City Hall, the customs service, and other users.

Sacramento's new license may mean that the Stone Blvd. building may eventually change its name to avoid confusion.

"We haven't given any consideration to talking to the Port about it," said Rusty Hammer, Chief Executive Officer of the Sacramento Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce. "At some point, it will probably have to be resolved."

Port Director John Sulpizio agreed that the name conflict was a low-priority concern.

"They're building what they want, with the name they want, and if there's a conflict I'd be happy to sit down and negotiate a resolution," he said.

The Port of Sacramento is operated by a government district that includes all of Sacramento County and part of Yolo County.

Managing our water

By Betsy A. Marchand

of Supervisors

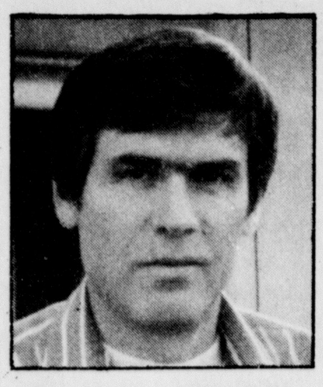

Yolo County needs a countywide plan and implementation strategy for managing existing groundwater and surface water supplies. This plan should also include developing the additional surface water identified as needed in the Yolo Water Plan Up-date adopted in 1992. Is that going to happen anytime soon? Probably not! To manage and to protect the water we have now will require a "sea change" in the way we do water business in this county.

Yolo, with a population of 150,000 people and 1,034 square miles, has 25 legal purveyors of

Life as a tugboat captain on the mighty Sacramento

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

A week ago last Monday a good friend of mine who owns his own marine construction company showed up at my front door early in the morning and said, "I hear you've got the day off. Would you be interested in giving me a hand out on the river for a few hours?"

"Sure," I said, although I wasn't exactly overflowing with confidence in my ability to assist someone in the construction business. "What kind of job are you working on?"

My friend (I'll call him John) explained that he needed to take some heavy equipment he had been renting off one of his barges, and in order to do that, he had to float the barge a few miles down the Sacramento River to a boat landing where he could then use a huge crane which was also on the barge to off-load the equipment. "But what do you want me to do?" I asked, sure that I would be of absolutely no earthly help to anyone involved in such a project.

"I just need someone to operate the tug boat," said John matter-of-factly.

"Tug boat?" I asked him with a smile. "Are you kidding? You want to turn me loose with a tug boat?"

"I can do the rest of it," explained John, "but it would really help to have someone operate the tug."

Knowing John as I do, I was pretty sure he could actually handle the whole thing all by himself and that he was just trying to include me in a little river outing on a beautiful fall morning, but what he didn't know was that ever since I can remember, I've always wanted to get behind the wheel of a tug boat.

When I was young, there used to be this popular weekly television show -- the title of which I have long forgotten -- but it starred a guy who I think was named Robert Preston and he played the role of a really cool tug boat captain, and his tug boat was named the Cheryl Ann, which also happened to be the name of my twin sister. Every week Robert Preston would have all these wild and woolly, spine-tingling adventures involving his tug boat and for longer than I care to admit, I was absolutely determined to grow up to someday be a brave, virile tug boat captain.

Anyway, by the time John and I reached his tug boat and the barge it was supposed to push down the river, the sun was already warm on our backs and I was having a great time. He took me up to the bridge, showed me how to work the controls and gave me a crash course on the hand signals he would be giving me from the deck of the barge. "It'll be a piece of cake," he assured me as he hurried off to do all the real work necessary to get us underway.

Suddenly there I was, Tug Boat Captain Daryl Fisher, smack dab in the middle of the mighty Sacramento River, pushing a giant barge which was easily capable of destroying any dock or pleasure boat in its path. And even though I had already forgotten the meaning of half the hand signals John kept flashing me, I somehow managed to keep the barge moving in the general direction of the boat landing, and my belief that I could have indeed been one of the all time great tug boat captains grew by leaps and bounds with every minute that passed.

Just before we reached our destination, I noticed a couple of old guys on a fishing boat looking over at me with awe, obviously convinced that I knew exactly what I was doing. Not wanting to disappoint them, I nodded confidently in their direction and only wished John's tug boat had one of those really loud foghorns that Robert Preston always used to toot when people came too close to the Cheryl Ann.

Much to my surprise, I somehow managed to push the barge right up to the foot of the boat landing and after John had secured everything, he jumped into the cab of the crane and began unloading the heavy equipment. "You did it," I said to myself as I leaped to land from the side of the barge to get a better look at what John was doing. "And best of all," I added with genuine pride, "you didn't make a fool of yourself even once!"

"Okay, Daryl," said John about fifteen minutes later, "you better get back on board now. We're ready to go."

Then it dawned on me that although jumping down off the barge had been relatively easy, getting back on the darn thing was going to be quite a bit more difficult. "John," I said, "bend down here and give me a hand, will you? I'll put my foot on the side of the barge and you can pull me up."

"I don't know," said John with concern. "That's quite a distance. You sure you can make it?"

"Are you kidding?" I said, positive that Robert Preston would have never even given the matter a second thought.

So I began to jump, and John began to pull, and my foot began to slide, and John's hand began to slip, and before I knew it, I was up to my chest in the dirty ice cold water of the Sacramento River, and John, who had absolutely refused to let go of my hand until the very last second, ended up somersaulting over my head and crashing down on the rock-hard pier with a loud thud.

After we had assured each other that we were okay, and as I stood there in the chilly river, shivering and suffering from, among other things, acute embarrassment and a very uncomfortable case of shrinkage, I happened to spot the two old fishermen who had been watching my every move. Not only were they slowly shaking their heads and grinning from ear to ear, but I'm pretty sure I heard one of them say to the other, "Robert Preston he definitely ain't!"

Aspiring to greatness, Smoot moves among the masses. . .

T.J. Smoot

There comes a time in every aspiring writer's life when he asks the great cosmic question: Does anyone read my column? Usually I'm averse to writing about this topic, but the seeds of doubt have been with me from the beginning and had now grown to become a towering, verdant cedar. I realized I had no choice but to shoot the spotted owl, chop at the trunk until the wood fell beneath my mighty axe, and win the victor's crown.

So I began to take my own informal, incognito survey. My first question went to a Hollywood Hardware (HH) clerk. (HH has one of my articles glued on a piece of wood located next to their counter.) I innocently asked the clerk, "Say, who is this Smoot guy anyway? Is he like part owner of the store?" I chuckled with nervous bravado.

"Oh, he's...uh...well...no one knows who he is," was the somewhat perplexed and ponderous reply, like he never had to articulate this thought before. I got goose bumps. Here was someone who obviously was familiar with my "Smootness" and was overcome with the mystery of my anonymity. "What is he...some kind of...uh...legend?" I took pride in my attempt to assert permanence in the community.

A blank stare and a bilateral blink was my answer. "Uh...I had a vice-principal at River City High School who was named Smoot."

"Ha, ha. Maybe he's the same guy." Crestfallen, I finished up my business and moped away.

One day while chatting at work with a mutual West Sacramentan, I saw my opportunity and spoke up, "Say Henry, do you read the News Ledger?"

"Oh, yes," he replied.

I got excited. "Do you ever read that guy, Daryl Fisher?" I offered this only as a lead-in to greater Smoot topics, but after a significant discussion, I managed only by heroic effort to swing the conversation to the more important topic at hand. "Excuse me Henry, do you read that other guy? What's his name? Smah, uh, Smoo..."

"Oh yeah." Henry paused to think. Then he waved his hand in front of him in disregard. "That guy. Nah... I just scan the title. I hardly ever read it." I valiantly continued on with other West Sacramentan topics and returned to my cube to mourn.

Later that day while at our sitter's house, I opened the Ledger to my column and asked her. "Say, do you read this?" I pointed to Smoot.

"Oh, yes!" She went on to discuss letters to the editor, the current state of affairs in Southport, and Daryl Fisher. Later when she calmed down, I asked her if she read Smoot.

"Oh, yeah, I've seen him in there before."

That was it. I was crushed. "Et tu, Brute?" More reflection just made me yearn for a pat on the back. Then one sunny day I remembered that Moby Dick wasn't discovered until the author, Melville, was dead. They found the manuscript in his desk. Cool. I was encouraged now! From now on I'm locking all my Smoot articles in my desk in the hopes that after I pass on heavenward some future literati will buy my desk at an estate sale, pry open the locked drawer, and find inside a dusty, yellowed and tattered envelope stuffed with pithy and insightful Smootness. Popularity doesn't come easily, but I shall continue on in the hopes that some poor English major in the year 2095 will have to analyze in four short pages of succinct and invigorating prose what really was this writer's great and inspiring message to West Sacramento.

Yolo District Attorney's Office helps obtain $22,000 in restitution

From County of Yolo District Attorney's Office Check Enforcement Unit

The check prosecution program recovered for Yolo County merchants and residents $22,174.15 in restitution in the month of October, 1995. Much of this restitution is paid by check writers before criminal proceedings are initiated. Once criminal complaints are filed and arrest warrants are issued, the court supervises the payments of restitution through the check program.

Also in October, 13 defendants appeared in court to answer their criminal charges. Of these nine defendants, the court ordered a total amount of restitution which exceeds $17,374.66. These individuals have been either convicted of passing bad checks or have been granted more time to pay their bad checks while under court supervision.

Businesses or persons who have received NSF or closed account checks in Yolo County and have been unable to get cooperation from the check writers, are encouraged to contact the check program. While stolen or forged checks must be reported to the local law enforcement agencies, NSF and closed account checks can be submitted to the check program for investigation.

For more information about the check program, call 666-8200 or contact the program at P.O. Box 1404, 725 Main Street, Room 303, Woodland, 95776. Any merchant or resident's needing check forms can pick them up at their local chamber of commerce office. The West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce is located at 1414 Merkley Ave. in West Sacramento.

US Bank is robbed again

A robbery suspect is still at large following an incident at the US Bank on Merkley Ave. and Jefferson Blvd. Monday.

At about 12:27 p.m., a man described in early reports as a white male in his 30s robbed the bank, saying he had a gun. Witnesses did not see the gun, but saw a bulge in one of the man's pockets.

The man fled on foot.

River City football comes up shy in 'must-win' situation against Grizzlies

By Khaled Dastagirzada
River City High School Football Team

The whole season would come down to this game for the Raiders -- they lost to the Golden Sierra Grizzlies, 29 to 14. If the Raiders had beaten the Grizzlies (8-1), they would have stolen second place, sending Golden Sierra to third. If they were to lose this game, the Raiders would go home with Golden Sierra in second and Marysville in third.

The Raiders were put in this same situation last year against Golden Sierra (determining playoff spot), but River City lost. "Since day one, we have set forth one goal -- to make the playoff -- and that goal is waiting out there on the field," said Coach Cambell.

On the Raiders' first drive, Josh Castro broke out into the open field, but he was finally taken down after a 41-yard carry. A drive that seemed to be on it's way to a touchdown was turned over on downs. #35 for Golden Sierra carried the ball for 30 yards, but their drive also resulted in no points because of an offensive pass interference on the Grizzlies. None of the offenses were able to score in the first quarter because of the great defensive plays. Gary Herren from River City was picked off by the Grizzlies. Then Brian Kinney from River City sacked Golden Sierra's quarterback, and the first quarter ended scoreless.

The second quarter was all Golden Sierra. A 24-touchdown run by #20 put the Grizzlies ahead 7-0. Randy Byard held the Raiders' hopes high with a 61-yard touchdown run. The two-point conversion failed, causing the Raiders to trail by one. Craig Martinez had a lightning-smashing hit on Sierra's kick returner. Sam Savala had a sack on that same drive, which held the Grizzlies to a 4th and 2. The Raiders "shot themselves in the foot" when they went offsides to give Golden Sierra a first down. That led to a four-yard touchdown run by #20. He also ran in the two-point conversion to increase Golden Sierra's lead to 15-6. The Grizzlies did most of their damage in the shortest amount of time. With just under six minutes remaining in the first half, they scored on a 60-yard touchdown pass to

"How about them Cowboys!!"

The Dallas Cowboys (8-2) had a big serving of "Texas Crow" last Sunday as the 49ers stunned the football world beating the over-confident 'Boys 38-20!

The 49ers (6-4) traveled to Dallas as two touchdown underdogs, but in a matter of two minutes into the game lead the Cowboys 14-0. It was "Hearbreak Hotel" because on the second play of the game, Elvis, playing for the injured Steve Young, hit Jerry Rice on a short crossing pattern for an 81-yard TD and the 49ers never looked back.

The Niners' defense, which is ranked No. 1 in the NFL, put a terrible beating on the Dallas scoring machine, forcing five turnovers. Troy Aikman, who is questionable for the Raiders game, was injured and forced out of the game on the first drive after being sacked and throwing an interception.

It was all 49ers until late in the fourth quarter when the Cowboys scored a late touchdown on the 49er subs. This was a great team victory, for the injury-riddled defending Super Bowl Champions. The bad news for the 49ers is that Steve Young decided to have arthroscopic surgery on Monday and will be lost to the team for another three to four weeks!! Six games remain in the regular season. The 49ers will need to rally around Elvis to win in Miami on Monday night, but look for the 49ers to win! 49ers 27, Miami 13.

The Cowboys travel to Oakland to face the 8-2 Raiders, who bet the Giants in New York last Sunday 17-13. Tickets to the Raiders game are selling for over $100 just to get in the door!! The Raiders will use this game to measure how good they really are. If the Raiders can score early on the Cowboys, their defense should be able to hold them off for an upset victory. Raiders 28 - Cowboys 24.

The Sacramento Kings (5-1) are off to the best start in franchise history. They won their first two home games, then went on the road to win three out of four games, plus won their first team fight. They upset the Indiana Pacers and were involved in a bench-clearing brawl. The Kings play three of their next four at home and want to continue playing tough defense. Sir Charles Barkley and the Phoenix Suns come to town Friday.

Boxing returns to the Sacramento Radisson Hotel on Tuesday, Nov. 21, with West Sac's undefeated Willie Jorrin. Jorrin (10-0, 6 KOs) will headline a five-bout card against Lazaro Padilla (13-4, 3 KOs). Tickets are available at the Azteca Restaurant at $20 and $40, or by calling me at 372-7332.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Honeymoon's over, but there's still work to be done

If you are a staff member at Washington Unified School District, a member of its board of trustees, or a teacher in the district, then you already know this:

The honeymoon between the district and its new superintendent ended some time ago. Work at the district goes on, as it should, but gone are the rose-colored glasses that temporarily allowed everyone to see the new administration in a "can do no wrong" fashion.

The honeymoon lasted as long as it did because the district had come out of such turmoil and controversy surrounding its ouster of the previous superintendent, and the community demanded a period of peace and progress. So the new administration under Dr. David Miller took root amid high hopes, and has achieved quite a bit (including better-looking campuses and a clampdown on truancy).

In fact, a scant half-year into his new three-year contract, Miller requested and obtained a one-year contract extension from the school board.

Then there was a much-talked about physical confrontation between the superintendent and an assistant, and other complaints about Miller's harsh style of leadership. This talk has come from board members, faculty and staff, but few have been willing to speak out in public.

There is always some grumbling about leadership from those below the top in any organization. The school district just has a little bit worse case of grumbling than it should.

But this doesn't mean it is time to change superintendents; it's not. This one isn't perfect, but then, just try finding one who is.

Dr. Miller has set some good policies in place. It would be expensive and distracting to try to switch horses midstream (just watch the situation in the school district across the river).

Sometimes the best thing for management to do is accept the personnel available, and learn to make the best of their abilities.

That is what both Miller and the school board need to do better: speak out and speak up productively, while searching for ways to draw out the best in those around them. If they succeed at this task, instead of resorting to bitterly entrenched positions and full-time political maneuvering, then they will have created a refreshing change from the past few years.

Letters to the Editor

Save the city

Forty-one years ago, we moved to a peaceful community with great shopping, good neighbors and left our doors open on summer nights. Then this safe community wanted to become a city.

What happened? Stores emptied, crime increased, prostitutes run rampant, drugs available, spit, vomit and urine on the sidewalks, mail stolen from boxes and graffiti everywhere. The overworked police are doing the best they can.

Think back to Woodland 41 years ago. A horribly depressed town. Look at it now! Cleaned up, stores galore, and businesses are flourishing. Why can't West Sacramento do it?

What are the elected officials and city council doing? Isn't there any one of them that can state, "The buck stops here," and get an improvement program started before West Sacramento becomes a slum?

Thanks for parade help

The 20th annual Community Day Parade Celebration was a huge success, thanks to the support of many organizations and businesses who helped financially, and to individuals who volunteered their time.

The West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce gives special thanks for all the help given in planning, organizing and supporting this event. Without that help, it would not have been possible to show that our community spirit still reigns. The following list gives some idea of the support we received:

Eva and Manny Aceituno; Bank of America; Denise Blair; Dr. Bob Buck; Mauda Butte; Christine Calderon; Bryan Carlson; Ritchie Carlson; Marlyn Coulombe; Coupons Plus; Al Cruz; Downtown Association; Engstrom Properties; Farmers' Rice Cooperative; Fire Department of West Sacramento; Vince Frugoli; Cari Gardner; Chuck Garton, Jr.; Dean Gaumer; Jim and Toni Gifford; Haz-Mat Driver, Steve Loheit; Helena Helmold; Sgt. Ed Hensley; Hotel/Motel Association; Kiwanis Club; Chuck and Sherry Lilley; Officer Ron Lawrence; Lions Club; Tiffany Lopes; McClellan Air Force Base; Tom and Joy McDuffie; Dr. David Miller; John Mattos; and Rusty Mendez.

Taking issues with Port

Edited from a lengthy manuscript:

Sacramento Port Director John G. Sulpizio stated (in a News-Ledger letter to the editor) last week that I had made false accusations and that I had lost my membership in the Longshoremen's Union for failing to abide by their rules. "Their rules" meaning the Pacific Maritime Association (Employer)/International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union's Contract rules which the Port of Sacramento is a third party to. (Herein I will refer to the Employer as the PMA and to the Longshoremen's Union as the ILWU). We need to discuss "their rules."

There is a PMA-ILWU rule which states that there shall be no 4-on and 4-off (Section 10.91). Another words, ILWU Local 18 union longshoremen in the Port of Sacramento are prohibitive from working 4 hours on and 4 hours off (off work) of any eight-hour paid work shift. Getting eight hours paid for only 4 hours of actual work. They do and have done this for the past 20 years.

I know this because I worked as a longshoreman in the Port of Sacramento from 1975 to 1989 and ILWU Local 18 Union longshoremen regularly worked 4-on and 4-off. This was and still is a common longshore practice in every West Coast Port despite it being a violation of "their rules."

Moreover, this illegal practice enables union longshoremen to take two or three eight-hour paid shifts in a single 24-hour period -- in longshore industry this is referred to as Doubling-Tripling Back. Work 12 hours and get paid for 24 hours. Hourly wages range from $22.68 to 34.00 dollars per hour. Good deal, right? Except for the people waiting in their longshore hiring hall looking for a job. This is a simple greed by so-called "Union" longshore members.

Second, the PMA-ILWU has a rule that states "any longshoreman found guilty of favoritism or discrimination or bribery shall be immediately discharged" from the Union-lose his or her union membership.

ILWU Local 18 Ex-Dispatcher/Ex-President/an current Sacramento Port union longshoreman Eddie Holland Senior was criminally convicted in 1988 of a padding the payroll scheme that dated back to 1981. Mr. Holland's partner in this criminal scheme was then Sacramento Port Terminal Superintendent David Helmecy. Mr. Holland spent approximately eight months in Federal Prison.

Yet in Mr. Holland's case, the PMA-ILWU and Mr. Sulpizio found no reason to discharge him from the Union. Mr. Holland still works as a ILWU Local 18 union longshoreman in the Port of Sacramento. Why Mr. Sulpizio?

Furthermore, by way of my "wild and irrational allegations" (my Unfair Labor Practice charges filed with the National Labor Relations Board against the PMA-ILWU), the rational and responsible PMA-ILWU officials decided (without litigation) to voluntarily fire/discharge from their Union sixteen of their relatives and friends -- who they had unlawfully registered as union members in 1989 in the Port of Sacramento -- in April of 1991. Why would such rational and responsible people voluntarily fire their own relatives and friends who had these $50,000 or more a year jobs plus fringe benefits when they knew that the NLRB was listening to me?

Moreover, Mr. Sulpizio, you Sir were the Assistant Sacramento Port Director during this time (1987-1989) when these PMA-ILWU officials worked hand-in-glove to create the Sacramento Port's longshore "C" list which unlawfully excluded qualified casual longshoreman from this list and then unlawfully registered their relatives and friends as Class B unionized longshoremen for ILWU Local 18. No knowledge Mr. Sulpizio?

I, like many other long-time Sacramento Port casual longshoremen sough inclusion on your Class B longshore list. I had worked for 12 years loading and unloading the PMA's (Employer's) ships in the Port of Sacramento.

Yet the PMA-ILWU Local 18 Employer/Union officials working together managed to exclude us -- Sacramento Port casual longshoremen with 10-15-20 years of work experience -- by changing their rules without notice and making up thee rules as they went along. The PMA-ILWU and their chosen few knew "their rules," but others were not in on the game.

As for my discharge/loss of membership from the Longshoremen's Union, that issue was not part of the NLRB proceedings because the NLRB and my own attorney conveniently failed to file NLRB charges against the PMA for its threats to fire me because of my protected conduct -- meaning my filing of NLRB charges against the PMA-ILWU's illegal Class B longshore registration in the Port of Sacramento. Furthermore, the charge I did file against the PMA was not investigated.

I did not abandon my longshore job as Mr. Sulpizio stated, I was forced out by the PMA-ILWU because I refused to stand down and keep quiet about their corruption and greed.

I and others sough inclusion on the Port of Sacramento PMA-ILWU Local 18's Class B longshore list not because I or any other long-time Sacramento Port casual longshoremen was special, but because we had earned it by working for it.

But the PMA-ILWU nor you sir are interested in the fair and just concept of rewarding work. You would rather see the PMA-ILWU's chosen and select few handed these $50,000 or more a year jobs plus fringe benefits.

And didn't your own study show that there are Port Directors who received only $65,000 dollars a year in small ports like Sacramento? You now earn $88,000 per year plus fringe benefits; isn't that enough in these austere times of Government doing with less?

Maybe if you would not have spent $500,000 on your self-promotion campaign in an attempt to get the taxpayers to pay $10 per year (assessment fee) for the Port and spend another $250,000 to properly dispose of fertilizer which before was illegally washed into the Deep Water Channel, you might have had enough to give yourself a 20 percent raise.

(And I must make one correction regarding my previous letter. Those Sacramento Port longshore jobs which should be available to the public, starting pay is $16.20 per hour, not $15 per hour.)

Southport loop" -- at a "cost" of only ten minutes and then finish the local run?

The first thought that came to my mind was the left turn off Jefferson onto Stone, often causing slowdowns and stoppings on that slick Barge Canal Bridge...interruptions in traffic flow there caused accidents leading to five (I believe) deaths earlier this year. So why not combine the logic of route #39 and #41? Let the 9:09 p.m. YoloBus be a #41 from downtown Sacramento to Jefferson Blvd. and Merkley Ave. Let is then become a #39, making a right turn onto Park Blvd., down to City Hall where it would hang a left onto Stone Blvd. It would then go right onto Jefferson Blvd. and do its Southport loop. Coming back from Southport, it would pass up the left turn at Stone Blvd., continuing north to the 15th Street signal where it would hang a left and once again become a #41 bus, finishing off as a "mid-day" #41...and since the 6:09 p.m. #41 weekday bus from Sacramento does not have the need to return to starting point within the next hour, it also could provide a run (heretofore not provided) to/from Southport, costing only ten minutes, too.

So two more Southport runs costing only ten minutes each, neither causing time crunches for drivers, are truly bargains for Southporters and their visitors without cars.

And just as I type this letter, the thought of the 7:09 p.m. #41 "Saturday Only" bus comes to mind...since it is the last local bus, we could apply the same #39/#41 logic to that route...only ten minutes!

On a related note, YoloBus management recently suggested that the 8 mid-day #39 be cut to 4 runs...2 before noon and 2 after noon. An elderly gentleman protested that such dramatic cutbacks would leave non-drivers like him little to do anything beyond going to downtown Sacramento, lunching and returning to Southport. I then countered, "Why don't we run the #39's every other hour, thus maintaining the range of service, but reducing the frequency by one-half?" (Low ridership resulting something like a $9.00/ride was cited as the reason for reducing service...)

Those other 4 runs should then be re-allocated to the #240 run -- the industrial park run. But the existing #240 run starts from downtown Sacramento, bypasses most of West Sacramento and the closest connection for local folks is (I believe) west of KOVR-Channel 13...not very good service for West Sac's folks to/from most of West Sac's major employers. That route should be modified to follow #40's path to Reed Ave. past Harbor Blvd., etc. or follow #41's route down Jefferson to Stone Blvds., past City Hall to main Post Office, Social Security Office, etc.

The preceding should offer YoloBus management some ideas to not only better serve the public, but also increase their "fare-box recovery ratio" and reduce expenses of doing so. And yes; if our Sunday ridership is as low as some claim for #41 (no #40 service), it also could be changed to an "every other hour service that would serve Southport and the Industrial Park area." Once demand picks up, the range and/or frequency off service could be increased. Restoration of 7:(?) and 8:(?) p.m. service to/from City Hall may one day be justified.

If readers like the "ten-minute Southport loop" or an "expanded local #240 route" matching local job-hunters with local jobs, they should contact SACOG at 3000 "S" Street, Sacramento, 95816, Attn: Ms. Lynn White, Assoc. Planner, or YoloBus or City Hall...

Finally, the above offers a realistic framework of service which allows our Southport neighbors to seriously "shed that extra car" with less inconvenience and non-drivers...it's obvious.

ter, Bear River scored on a 1-yard run to lead, 30 to 0. In the fourth quarter, River City scored on a 1-yard run by quarterback Felix Timas to trail, 30 to 6. River City scored again on a 22-yard pass from Malcom Floyd to Frank Valdez and Timas passed to Floyd for the 2 point conversion to lose, 30 to 14. This freshman team had a good season, ending up with a 4-5 record in league and 5-5 overall.

The offense was led by Dominique Alpers, with 90 yards; Alfredo Rodriguez, 84 yards; Adam Wickliffe, 24 yards; Gilbert Savala, 13 yards; Felix Timas, 3 yards; and Malcom Floyd, 3 yards.

Defense was led by Ricky Santos with 3 tackles, 6 assists, 1 fumble recovery; Felix Timas, 6 tackles, 2 assists; Derick Taylor, 5 tackles, 2 assists; Malcom Floyd, 3 tackles, 3 assists, 1 knock-down pass; Brady Tacdol, 3 tackles, 2 assists; and Dominique Alpers, 3 tackles, 2 assists.

On offense for the season, Dominique led with 134 carries per 629 yards and Alfredo Rodriguez had 82 carries for 331 yards. Malcom Floyd had 11 touchdowns and 7 conversions. Defense was led by Alpers, with 157 points, and Ricky Santos, 113 points.

Head Coach Chris Baker said, "I'd just like to make a point of thanking all my players, coaches and the parents for all of their support this season."

#4. #80 for Sierra picked off Gary Herren. He added on the exclamation point when he scored on a 35-yard touchdown pass right before the half ended. The score at halftime was 29-6.

The Raiders came out strong in the second half, as usual.

Justin Deed (River City defensive lineman) caught an interception, but R.C. was forced to turnover on downs. Dave Jernigan, for River City, came up with a sack, forcing Golden Sierra to punt.

The Raiders had a descent drive, led by Jimmy Timas, but were forced to turnover on downs once again. Sierra fumbled and R.C.'s Marty Trevino recovered. The score at the end of the third quarter was still 29-6.

Herren threw a 13-yard touchdown pass with Castro being the recipient. The two-point conversion was run in by Castro, and the score was now 26-14. Sierra fumbled again and this time Will Welcher, who had tied the all-time Raider sack record (17 sacks held by Tyrome Johnson), recovered the fumble. A pass-interference penalty called on Golden Sierra brought the Raiders down inside their 10-yard line. The Raiders were held to a 4th and 3. Castro was given the toss and was stopped. The Grizzlies ran out the clock and moved on to second seed, ending with a record of 9-1. River City ended their season 6-4 (4-3 in league).

The Raiders would have loved to experience playoffs, but the coaching staff seemed satisfied with the second half effort. The Raiders are now looking forward to their next season and, maybe then, playoffs will be in their destiny.

Fat?
Sick and Tired?

So was I. Overweight, suffering from chronic fatigue, experiencing hair loss, anxiety resulting in heart palpitations, and poor diet attached to a high stress work environment, blah, blah, blah. . . (Sound familiar?)

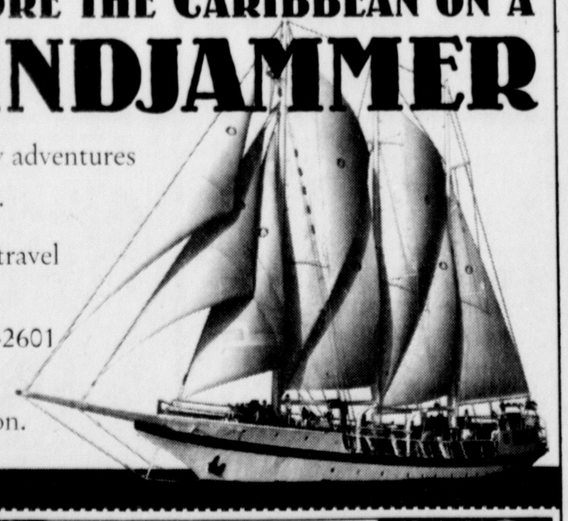

Well, today I have lost over 50 lbs., I weigh what I did as a high school junior nearly 18 years ago, the hair loss has stopped, the heart problems have ceased, my diet has greatly improved, and I no longer experience the high stress in virtually the same line of business.

This may not work for everyone, but if you want to know how to get off the track to a short life-span and one that may add years to a more productive and healthier life, simply call (800) 836-9180. I will send you a free tape, and personally return your call.

I wouldn't be offering this product to you if I hadn't used it for over 1 1/2 years and believed in it myself.

What's New at the Library

Timothy Leary takes on current cultural milieu

SOCIOLOGY: CHAOS & CYBER CULTURE
Timothy Leary. Ronin. 224 pages
The guru of the turned-on generation of the '60s turns his attention to today's political and cultural climate. Leary is still feisty after all these years, with a positive take on life that belies the fact that he's dying of a terminal illness. An interesting read for aging hippies, thoughtful observers and cyber-tekkies alike.

FICTION
MYST: THE BOOK OF ATRUS
Rand & Robyn Miller. Hyperion. 304 pages
This is the latest in a series of novels that creates a mysterious and image-laden world in which the unlikely is likely to occur. Not your run-of-the-mill science fiction, this latest Myst novel embeds layers of meaning into visions of the fantastic.

DAWNING OF DELIVERANCE
Judith Pella. Bethany House. 268 pages
Tired of movies, books and TV shows that just show the seamy side of life? Try this quasi-romance novel that offers an uplifting message of hope. Pella's style is down to earth, almost like Hemingway in its simplicity and she has been widely praised by critics.

WATER: the need for a management plan from page 1

water. These are independent entities, which by state and federal law, can buy, sell, develop and manage water supplies. The following are purveyors in this county:

Four cities -- Davis, Woodland, Winters, and West Sacramento;

Three special district water districts -- Yolo County Flood Control and Water Conservation District, Yolo-Zamora Water District, and Dunnigan Water District;

University of California, Davis;

Seventeen Reclamation Districts in Yolo (plus some multi-county districts).

There is no one entity or governing mechanism that speaks for all of the water interests; the level of activity, expertise, and financial viability varies greatly among the purveyors. Ironically, large areas of Yolo County are in no water district at all, and the County of Yolo is not a purveyor.

The questions has to be asked: with the existing system can Yolo cope with its own water needs and politically protect its water in an arid and thirsty state? The answer is no; Yolo is not prepared to deal with today's "water wars" let alone those of the future. A list of "big picture water realities" for which we are not prepared would include the following:

There is a fixed surface water supply in California; there most likely aren't going to be more dams, including Auburn, built; the state and federal governments are out of money. Yolo County is in the "area of origin" which supplies most of the state's water; other areas of the state would like nothing better than to gain control over water rights now held in the area of origin.

The growing demand from urban and environmental users puts huge pressure on the agricultural users. Some of the urban areas looking for water are as nearby as the City of Fairfield and the Laguna area of Sacramento County.

Groundwater capacity is being depleted at about three percent a year statewide. Under Woodland and Davis are large depression cones; both cities rely solely on groundwater; there is no groundwater management plan or ordinance in Yolo.

Water marketing and water transfers by individual landowners and water districts are seen as a panacea and a "quick fix" by state and federal decision-makers, as well as by some economists. Powerful proponents of water transfers include the Bank of America, the Environmental Defense Fund, and a new group of professionals called water brokers.

Some Yolo landowners with water rights want to sell those rights on a permanent basis to the highest bidder anywhere in the State and fallow (dry farm) the land. This is an "Owen's Valley" type of water transfer.

There is no one at the table from Yolo County when water decisions are made around the state. It is hard to deal with a cast of thousands.

Financial markets view the diminishing supply of water to California agriculture as a negative credit factor for agriculture-based economies because of (1) the resulting loss of income and employment; (2) erosion of the tax base; (3) impractical costs of securing additional water supplies; and (4) the uncertain benefits of water transfers among farmers to mitigate the effects of the water shortage. (See Moody's Investment Service, Perspective, September 30, 1994.)

In its ques for water transfers the urban/environmental coalition has a new ally -- land use planners. A law on the Governor's desk now says that when an EIR is required in connection with amending a city or county general plan, there has to be an assessment of water supply and demand. This law, which may be a good thing in some ways, is really going to put pressure on the ag community and the area of origin.

As dangerous to us as California's "water realties" are, there are many barriers preventing the Yolo water interests from working together to develop implementation strategies for managing water in this county. The barriers listed below have to be understood and worked through before any real solutions -- and real protections -- are going to happen.

Water metering is feared and abhorred by most agricultural users. Ag pumpers believe that meters on their pumps will lead to a pump tax and somebody will try to dictate how much water they can pump and when they can pump it. No water program is going to work in this county without the cooperation and "buy in" of the ag community. They use most of the water. Through percolation and surface water application it is true their water use reduces the strain on urban groundwater.

Developing new water whether by conjunctive use, by moving water from East to West, or by buying Sacramento River water rights, will cost money. Who will bear the costs? Will it be the new homeowners and new businesses once again? How will a water treatment plant be paid for?

There is an impending crisis but nobody seems to know it. When you turn the faucet on, water still comes out. We take clean drinking water for granted, even though Davis and Woodland have all their eggs in one basket and rely only on groundwater. In Fresno, 40 wells have been shut down due to contamination. But that seems far away now. There is no public or media pressure on elected officials to secure Yolo's water future.

Historically and traditionally there is no "community of interest," especially in Western Yolo County, on water matters. The old saying, "Whiskey is for drinking, water is for fighting over," seems all too pertinent. If we leave things to take their natural course, our internal dissention will make us easy prey for divide and conquer water grabs.

Finding a way to begin to address directly these barriers needs to happen now. Time is running out.

When you need a building permit

By Bhu Patel
Building Division Manager
City of West Sacramento

Home owners thinking about remodeling their home or adding other improvements, such as decks, spas or retaining walls, many times have a number of questions about building permits.

This article is designed to give home owners basic knowledge of when construction permits are required in the City of West Sacramento. It also answers some of the most frequently asked questions and offers tips from the City of West Sacramento Building Division.

Since each construction project is unique, we invite you to telephone the department's information line at 373-5822, for answers to your specific questions.

What are permits and why do I need one?

Permits are the way the City of West Sacramento regulates construction. This regulation is designed to ensure that all construction in the city is safe. The safety of the occupants of buildings is the primary reason for having construction codes. The City has adopted several codes, among them the Uniform Building, Mechanical and Plumbing and National Electric codes. In addition, there are federal, state and local laws that govern construction, such as those covering energy conservation.

There are several different types of permits, based on the type of construction: structural, plumbing, mechanical and combination, which is used to single-family home construction and other small projects. Most home owner projects require a combination permit. In addition, the complete demolition of buildings also requires permits.

Obtaining the permit is just the first step in the process. In this step, you may need to create plans to be submitted to the department, make a plot plan for your property showing the improvements, and show the type of construction you'll be using.

The Building Division has handouts to help you through this process.

Once the plans are approved, you're required to build the project to those plants. If any changes are made to the plans, they must be made with the department's approval.

The second half of the process is the inspection of the work. More about that later.

When do I need a construction permit?

A construction permit is needed for almost all new construction. In many cases a permit is needed for repair or replacement of existing features, such as changing windows. A plumbing, electrical or mechanical permit is required for any additions or changes to the structure's existing system; for example, moving or adding an electrical outlet requires a permit.

To determine whether your project needs a permit, call us at 373-5822.

When don't I need a permit?

A construction permit is not required for items such as wallpapering, painting or similar finish work; fences six feet high or lower; platforms and walks 30 inches high or less over grade or not over a basement; and in several other cases. However, approvals may be required by the Zoning, Planning Division or other agencies; check before building.

For plumbing, mechanical and electrical work, replacement or repair of fixtures (such as changing water faucets or replacing switches) does not normally require a permit. Replacing a water heater or installing a garden sprinkler system does, however, require a permit.

To determine whether your project needs a permit, call 373-5822. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except holidays.

Where do I get a permit?

Construction permits are issued by the Building Division, located at 1951 S. River Road.

How long does it take to get a permit?

Permit issuance periods vary. Some permits can be issued over-the-counter, meaning return trips will not be necessary. Some projects require that plans be left for additional review.

What about zoning?

Zoning sets up, within a defined area, the physical standards (such as setbacks and paving) and uses that are allowed.

Zoning is regulated by the city's Planning Division, based on maps approved by the City Council. A variance may be obtained in some unique cases if a property owner cannot meet the physical standards of the zone.

In addition, some zoning questions can be answered by the Building Division staff at the time of permit application and/or plan submittal.

There are also special zones within the city, such as planned developments. The Planning Division can answer questions about these areas.

The Planning Division is located at 1951 S. River Road. The telephone number is 373-5854.

What about other approvals or permits?

Other city or government agencies may need to review and approve your project. The Building Division will inform you of these approvals at the time plans are submitted.

What if I don't get a permit?

If a permit, when required, is not obtained prior to construction, you are in violation of City of West Sacramento codes and regulations and will be subject to additional investigation fees. You'll be required to obtain permits for the work and it must pass inspection.

Remember...construction codes were created for safety reasons. Work built without permits can be unsafe, no matter how good it looks. In addition, work done without permits may void your insurance and cause problems when you sell.

The City of West Sacramento has a code enforcement section that reviews suspected building code violations. The number for code enforcement is 373-5854.

What if I obtained a permit but never had inspections?

Generally, permits expire after 180 days if no inspections have been made. In order for the project to be complete, it must be inspected. If a permit expires before the final inspection is made, the project is in violation of City codes.

Who should obtain the permit?

Contractors licensed by the State of California or agents can obtain permits. The home owner can also obtain the construction permits.

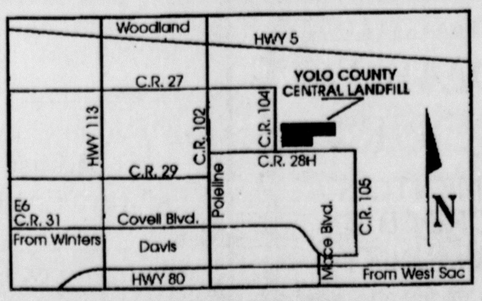

Can I do the work myself or do I have to hire a contractor?

Property owners can do the work themselves, but they must follow certain regulations. Among them:

Workers' Compensation: If you will be hiring anyone, you may have to have Workers' Compensation insurance. This insurance is available from many agencies.

The Sacramento river registered 3f 6in U. S. guage at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday.

A picturesques rescue of a drowning Chinaman was made last Tuesday afternoon by Muchy Mathena in the Sacramento river near the S. P. bridge. Disgusted with life the Chinaman jumped off the top rail of the bridge into the water of about 10 feet deep. He sank to the bottom and for more than a minute stuck in the mud. Repairing his duck boat in the vicinity Mathena heard the great splash and looking around for the cause could see nothing. He resumed his operations on the boat and had just started once more when the Chinaman came to the surface bellowing like a bull moose. The water was too cold for the Chinaman and he swam to the center pier where he grabbed the concrete and saved himself. Mathena desiring to save a human life put out in his boat to get the man and successfully hauled him into the stern. Very badly scared the Chinaman kept on bellowing for help until Mathena believed him to be crazy. He rowed for shore as quick as possible but the Chinaman advanced on him from the stern. Mathena was scared. He clubbed his oar and told the Chinaman to stand back. Still more scarred the Chinaman believed Mathena to be crazy and was about to jump overboard until Mathena threw him down and sat on him leaving the boat to drift to shore. Mathena now says that anymore Chinamen who wish to commit suicide will be welcome to do so without his interference.

A young man named John Marlan about 17 years of age was robbed of his overcoat about 10 days ago north of Rocky Point by two youngsters of about the same age. He went into the brush to spend time until a freight train came along which he intended to board for his own town. Meeting the other two youngsters they told him they were ready to rob him and proceeded to do so. Finding no cash on his person they took his overcoat and told him that if he made an outcry they would brain him. He made his way quickly to the bridge but Constable Buckingham could find no trace of the boys who had robbed him. Marlan had $150 sewed to the band of his underwear.

Jackass is a peculiar intoxicant. It makes men do the queerest thing imaginable and frequently brings an elysium of delight that is impossible of description even by those who indulge. Since James S. Lear and W. Parks came down from La Moine with well filled wallets they have been making the rounds of their old haunts in Sacramento with the consequence that they frequently lost their way crossing the bridge. Absolutely they went astray the other day on the bridge between Washington and Sacramento. But the funniest joke on them was that which happened last Monday.

For a long time Lear has been contemplating the erection of a fancy fence around his home property. Last Monday morning he went to Sacramento and bought material having it delivered immediately so that he and Parks could get to work on it. Delivery being slow they rested at a neighboring Inn until it arrived and then set to work. Lear's home is next to the Town Hall. Between those two properties they put the first stretch of fence and then started on the front. Instead of turning to the right they turned to the left with the result that when the fence was completed it was placed around the Town Hall instead of around Lear's property. The entrance gate that was intended to be placed in front of Lear's front door was at the back entrance to the Town Hall. Neighbors advised them to rest awhile and when they woke up they found their mistake. Parks now says that the United States Government is responsible for the mistake because he can't get anything better than jackass and threatens suit for the time lost in fencing in Yolo County property.

Judge Barry discharged J. Rocco last Tuesday from the charge made against him by Simone Giancola of West Sacramento. Giancola swore to a complaint for assault with a deadly weapon and made claim that Rocco attacked him with a pitch fork. During the trial. Rocco made claim that he only used his fists on Giancola and then only after he had been called vile names. There being no witnesses to the affray and the testimony being so widely different Judge Barry discharged Rocco.

E. A.Palm is sporting a new Willys-Knight automobile which he purchased the other day after having wrecked the car he has been useing during the past year. Out at Joyland in Sacramento last week a crazy driver cut a corner and ran into him wrecking his car. Palm pursued the reckless man who noticing the pursuit turned out his lights so that his license number could not be seen. The wreck of Palms car was traded in on the new purchase. He had no insurance except against fire and theft.

Mrs. G. Newton has been down sick during the past few days with a severe cold. She is at the home of her mother in Sacramento in order to get better care.

Mrs. J. D. Barry has entirely recovered from her late sickness and is again attending to her household duties.

There is no foundation for the report spread in Sacramento a few days ago to the effect that the United States Fiber Products plant in West Sacramento has been purchased by parties from Oakland or San Francisco. The Independent has this from undeniable authority.

Mrs. Ira Conrad of Richmond, who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. F. Wheat, to-day returned home.

Mrs. A. A. Dassonville spent last Wednesday with her niece, Mrs. Edward Schick, in East Sacramento.

A delightful Hallowe'en party was given Saturday night at the home of F. L. White, Sr., to a large number of their friends. The evening was spent in playing cards. Hallowe'en games and music, followed by a banquet. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. F. L. White, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. F. L. White, Jr., Mrs. Bessie White, Miss Jeanette Buckingham, Miss Ardella Manchester, Ernest Fisk, Norman White, Wallace White, Howard White and Blair Manchester.

Miss Delmonica Anderson gave a Hallowe'en party to her friends last Sunday evening.

Mrs. Clarence Crittenden of Sacramento, with her sister, Mrs. Ray Peek, gave a birthday party to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McNeven of Washington last Sunday. A delightful birthday dinner was served, and Mrs. McNeven was then presented with a handsome ring, the gift of the two daughters. Those present at the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. James McNeven, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peek, Hector McNeven, Mrs. A. Nugent, Charles McKay, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Crittenden, and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. McNeven.

Mrs. Hazel Harris and Miss Clarice Talbot went to Stockton last Saturday to spend the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Buckingham, who for the past few months have been visitors at the home of Mrs. Josephine Marty, have returned to their home in Paradise Valley, Nevada.

Earl Hancock has returned from a business trip to San Francisco.

Miss Winnifred Van Hagen of the State Physical Education Department visited the Washington School last week and examined the pupils and playground equipment. She declared herself in favor of the system of physical training here which consists of giving the children exercise with garden tools and light work in the soil. As a result the front of the school has been put entirely into new grass this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Riso, Jr., who were married Friday in Sacramento have returned after a week-end honeymoon in the Bay cities and are now at home.

The four grades of the Washington school gave a Hallowe'en party at the schoolhouse Friday night. There were a program, refreshments, and fun. Fancy dancing was a feature of the evening, and among those who danced were Ruth Rickard, Margaret Dupyzk, Hollis Palm, Laverne Thomas and Dolly Keenright, the latter a talented little toe dancer of 12, who also directed and conducted the entire performance. Inez DePrato was Queen of the Green Leaf Girls, and the fifth and sixth grade girls sang "Peggy O'Neil;" Helen Dassondille gave a piano solo and three little girls, Georgie Mathena, Anita Gunn and Bernice Butters, sang a charming song entitled, "Like a Ship Without a Sail." Among other clever numbers was a ghost dance by the larger girls, led by Dolly Keenright and accompanied by Mrs. I. K. Lancester. There was a little play, after which games was played.

REPAIR WORK ON CONCRETE HIGHWAY IN WEST SACRAMENTO HAS BEEN STARTED

Preliminary to building a modern roadway through the West Sacramento district engineers have been more or less at sea as to how to proceed.

Several years ago a concrete roadway was built from the soil laboratory southward a distance of about five miles to the church now located there as a landmark. This road getting no attention and very little repair has practically disintegrated and to add to its poor condition great beet trucks cut it to pieces two months ago when hauling beets to Jefferson station on the O. A. & E. R. R.

Many engineers have viewed this road in order to estimate what should be done to it—tear it up and throw it away or use it as a base for another road or layer of concrete.

Last week a decision was arrived at with the results that Joe Lawrence is now ready to start crushing the concrete with a 20 ton roller so that the new road made may be laid on top of it.

Lawrence's roller is equipped with great spikes about 3 inches in length. These will penetrate the concrete and the weight of the roller will crush it to an even base for the new materials.

This is an experiment that has not been tried but is estimated to give the best satisfaction under the circumstances.

There are many great chuck holes in this stretch of roadway which will be filled with loose rock or concrete before the permanent road will be laid.

As mentioned above this road extends from the soil laboratory to the Catholic church. From that point the road will turn eastward towards the river levee at Lisbon station and thence southerly to the town of Clarksburg.

Supervisor Leinberger believes he will be able to get this road graded before heavy rains and hopes to finish the road before next spring.

Great traffic now runs over this roadway for all farmers of the West Sacramento district and a great many from the Holland district use it to get their crops to Sacramento.

With an improved road there an immense amount of traffic will be added to that which now crosses the Southern Pacific and M st bridges.

Only one bad place remains to be repaired in the road between the M st bridge and the West Sacramento headquarters. This work has already been ordered done by Supervisor Leinberger and is now in the hands of Teichert & Sons of Sacramento.

Nearly all the other Yolo County Highways specified in the $1,000,000 bond issue have been completed leaving this section of the county to suffer again during the coming winter.

BOLD HOLDUP LAST SATURDAY NIGHT NEAR FOURTH ST.

About 9:30 last Saturday night an Italian expressman on his way to Sacramento was held up and robbed on Ann Street, near Fourth, by two highwaymen who got $100 from him.

The two men asked him for the price of a meal and when he offered them a small coin they told him to throw up his hands. This he refused to do and kicked one of the bandits in the stomach, knocking him down.

He was about to make his getaway when the other landed a blow with a revolver on the back of his head knocking him senseless.

He thought they were about to kill him and told them they would find his money in his hip pocket. They found it all right and left on the dead run for the jungles near Riverbank.

Constable Buckingham was called but no trace of the bandits could be found.

The court of Appeals of Sacramento decided the other day that children attending school cannot be forced to dance.

Isn't it awful to waste the time of a court, an expensive court, on such trivial affairs.

CHARGE OF WIFE-STEALING DISMISSED

Woodland, Nov. 1.—The charge against J. V. Morris, a farm worker, of having tried to steal the wife and six children of George A. Henry of the Clarksburg section, was dismissed in Judge Harrison's court yesterday morning on motion of Assistant District Attorney J. H. Laugenour. It developed that the trouble arose over back pay said to be due Morris. Several of the witnesses for the prosecution failed to appear.

CEBRIAN CATTLE GET MANY PRIZES

Among its winners were reserve championship for senior cow, reserve champion heifer, best calf herd, best four animals either sex, and best two animals of either sex.

TRUCK AND MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT MAY RESULT IN LAWSUIT

Last Wednesday afternoon about 3 p. m., when Ed Curry, who was crossing the Southern Pacific bridge with his automobile truck, a motorcycle under the control of Frank Murral of Sacramento passed him at Third Street.

Murray, blocked by another car, was forced to stop and gave the sign to Curry, who was behind him.

Curry either failed to see the sign or could not stop on the incline of the bridge and as a consequence ran down Murray, throwing him off the motorcycle and wrecking the machine considerably.

Murray's coat and pants were torn off him, but yet Curry failed to stop to give him help.

Murray insists that Curry is responsible for the damage done, but Curry refuses to see it that way, even though he acknowledges he did not stop to give the injured man assistance.

God knows I am not the thing I should be,
Nor am I even the thing I could be,
But twenty times I rather would be
An atheist clean,
Than under Gospel colors hid be
Just for a screen.

Thanksgiving Service

Joy Christian Ministries will be conducting its Third Annual Thanksgiving Service on Thursday, November 23, at 9 a.m. The service will convene at their new location, 828 Merkley Ave. This special service will be full of music, singing, and a Thanksgiving message from Pastor J.C. Meyers, III. It will be a tremendous way to start the holiday festivities. All people are cordially invited to attend. For more information, please call 375-0066.

Non-Emergency Number

On Saturday, November 18, the Non-Emergency telephone number for Police and Fire will be changed to 375-6474. For a few hours during the morning of November 18, citizens must call 666-8928 for non-emergency police and fire situations. If there is an emergency, please dial 911.

Home Repair Program

Can't afford to repair your home? West Sacramento has low-interest loans! Attend a free workshop to get all the details on Monday, November 13, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. at Westfield Elementary School, Multipurpose Room, 508 Popular Street. Call 373-5843 to register, or 456-4784 for more details.

OLG Bazaar

Our Lady of Grace School is having it's annual Craft Bazaar and Santa Day on Saturday, December 2, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school hall, located at 1920 Linden Road. Many local crafters will hace their wares on display. There will be a Santa Store where children under 12 can purchase and wrap a gift for the adult on their list. Santa will visit with the children and pose for pictures from noon to 3 p.m. A hot dog lunch, as well as cookies and punch, will be on sale. For information on renting a table, call Jeanette Keith at 371-2281 before November 26.

Seniors have flu shot clinic 9 to 11 a.m. this morning

Mid-November is the time for senior flu shots. A flu shot clinic will be held in West Sacramento on Wednesday, November 15, from 9 to 11 a.m. at the West Sacramento Senior Center, 664 Cummins Way, where vaccinations will be given for a fee.

Former pastor pleads 'no contest,' accepts one year in jail

Don Wisdom, 44, the former pastor of the Word of Life Assembly of God Church in West Sacramento, was sentenced Thursday to one year in jail after pleading no contest to charges of having a sexual relationship with a minor.

Wisdom was accused of having the relationship with the girl between 1994 and 1995. She was a member of the congregation whom the former pastor had counseled.

As part of the plea bargain, Wisdom will not have to spend time in state prison.

Wisdom will also have to spend five years on probation and pay over $5,000 in fines.

The former pastor was fired after disclosure of the allegations.

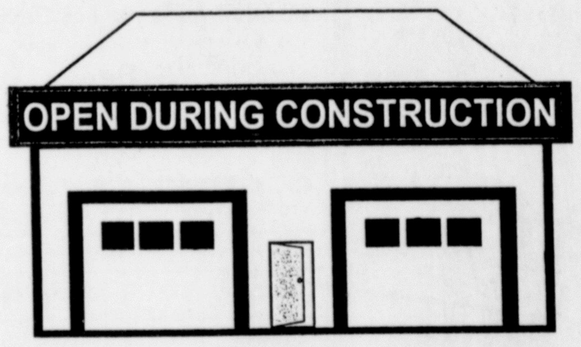

Gunman robs local market

Guy G. Gibson Jr. & Associates Invite You to Learn How to . . .

Avoid Probate

through the Benefits of a LIVING TRUST

If you are like most of us, you would like to safeguard your property and assets from taxes and inflation. Eventually you would like to leave your property, when you die, to your family or other heirs without unnecessary interference from the IRS, attorneys, or the State Court system.

If that is your situation, then you need to know why . . .

1. PROBATE IS REQUIRED if the value of your estate exceeds $60,000 even if you have a will!
2. THE PROBATE COURT ignores debts and liens which inflates the size of your estate in their valuation.
3. A LIVING TRUST can benefit even a small estate.
4. JOINT TENANCY does not always avoid PROBATE and can result in your heirs or spouse paying unnecessary INCOME TAXES.
5. Proceeds from LIFE INSURANCE are subject to ESTATE TAXES.
6. A LIVING TRUST AVOIDS PROBATE, saves your heirs thousands of dollars in PROBATE FEES and ESTATE TAXES, and prevents unnecessary delay in passing your estate to your heirs.

Dear Friends:

We invite you to benefit from our EXPERIENCE in our local, friendly law office. We are an established, full service law firm emphasizing estate planning for over twenty years.

Visit one of our offices for a FREE, NO OBLIGATION consultation regarding Estate Planning and the Revocable Living Trust. This is an opportunity to have your personal questions answered and get an analysis of your particular estate by an attorney, not a canned presentation by a "Living Trust" company. We will be pleased to answer your questions in the strictest confidence and discuss any other concerns you may have, such as the Right to Die, Living Wills, Powers of Attorney, Estate Tax issues, Long Term care planning, and other probate alternatives.

We also hold free, small group information sessions the third Friday of each month, from 10-11:30 A.M. in our Folsom office, and 1:30-3:00 P.M. in our West Sacramento office. Register early, as space is limited.

Contact us by phone or mail within the next ten days for an appointment or to attend an upcoming group session and receive ten percent off the price of a Trust, Will or related service if you bring this ad with you. Particularly during the holiday season, we encourage you to get your affairs in order as soon as possible!

We look forward to hearing from you soon.
